SYNOPSIS

A recent study estimated that over 70 million people worldwide are affected by neurodegenerative diseases. For many diseases, current treatments only address symptoms and do not alter disease progression, whilst these treatments can be very helpful there is an urgent need for disease modifying therapies. Over the last few years we have seen significant advances in our understanding of the underlying biology, identification of new therapeutic targets and the design of novel drug candidates. This meeting will highlight leading edge research in the design and development of new therapeutics.

This meeting is building upon the very successful New Approaches to the Treatment in Parkinson's meeting held in November 2025.
