

NuFor – Nuclear Forensics

14–15 October 2020

Institute of Physics, London, UK

Nuclear Forensics directly supports national nuclear security and is reliant upon access to expertise from across the nuclear industry, academia and beyond. Many people from a diverse range of disciplines have experience and knowledge that could be invaluable to nuclear forensics, which by sharing will help support this exciting and important scientific field.

NuFor (Nuclear Forensics) is a two-day technical conference that brings together experts from academia, industry and government to share developments in the field of nuclear forensics to a wider audience. The conference aims to highlight the work done throughout industry and academia that can be used to support national nuclear security, as well as promoting the exchange of information and good practice between those already involved in nuclear forensics and other specialists who could provide wider value to the nuclear forensics community.

The conference will consist of keynote speakers, technical sessions, poster sessions, and an exhibition. There will also be social activities for informal networking.

The exhibition will be held alongside the conference to complement the programme and provide opportunities for companies to showcase their products and services, and connect with the community. We expect 100 participants to attend from technical specialists across different disciplines. Participants will be drawn from multiple scientific areas, representing: the analytical sciences, radiochemistry, material science, mathematics and physics, as well as law enforcement and government policymakers.
